About us

Downtex Mill formerly a working textile mill for over 100 years and part of Manchester's industrial history before becoming a hub of the city's vast music culture.

Through careful adaptation the original architecture sits alongside contemporary design and production. Exposed brickwork, steel and high ceilings meet the modern creating a unique and heritage rich space for events and productions.

The venue is a canvas that adapts from intimate gatherings to large-scale productions, ensuring each client can build something that feels entirely their own.
